Floor covering is often overlooked as an important trade show accessory. Yet, it can play a vital role in furthering your brand image, enhancing the overall booth design, and creating a welcoming environment that draws people into your booth.

The STRIDO anti-fatigue interlocking carpet tile not only adds a professional look to your booth but can add to the success of your show.

The STRIDO tiles with their EVA foam backing absorb impact and are a valuable asset to trade shows where standing for days on end can play havoc on one's feet and back ... to the extent that productivity suffers.

STRIDO tiles are quick and easy to install with their interlock design and are a great alternative to conventional carpeting and flooring. When installed in large areas it is important to start laying the tiles from the center of the area rather than from a corner so as to ensure the best coverage.

The interlocking carpet tiles are lightweight, durable, waterproof and easy to maintain. They are easy to transport and are great for temporary and permanent floors such as:

- Trade shows, fairs and conventions
- Basements and family rooms
- Offices and showrooms
